Opportunity Table by Peter Lin

Speaker: Peter T. Lin, Proprietor of Diamond Orchids, will be presenting "Compact Vandaceous Species and Their Hybrids"

Peter started growing orchids over 35 years ago, but then stopped due to school and starting a career. It wasn't until about 14 years ago that the orchid "bug" came back and he is now heavily involved once again! He is an accredited judge with the American Orchid Society, and a hybridizer of mini-catts. He enjoys meeting with other orchid enthusiasts, and can often be found at various orchid shows and societies around the country.

Due to limited growing space, Peter likes to specialize in miniature orchids, both species and hybrids, and has received numerous AOS awards. His interests in orchids include Dendrobiums, Angraecoids, and Neofinetias. He is also known as "Mr Sophronitis" as he has a passion for growing and collecting them. He maintains a collection of a thousand or more orchids at his home in Southern California in 3 small greenhouses, outdoors, as well as an offsite greenhouse.

The President's Corner

The spring's shows are long over and the growing season is upon us. My Laelia purpurata's are starting to bloom as well as many others that don't get the recognition they deserve. It's mid-June and your plants are screaming to be fertilized.

Also, when you are dividing up your plants make sure to put a plant aside for our auction!

Notes On The Filoli Flower Event – From Mike Rector

The POS orchid display at Filoli was really great (see below), and the organizers and attendees all had rave reviews for it. Rex did a great job, as usual, placing the plants for a beautiful arrangement. We were in the kitchen this year which gave us a lot of room for people to view. There were about 1300 people each day visiting the Flower Show.

Thank you to: Rex Castell, Jeff Trimble, Mike Drilling, Chaunie Langland, Tom Mudge, Gloria Bygdnes, Dean Haas, Abraham and Kimmy Chih, Paul and Phyllis Chim, Mark Khoo, Jasmine and Ken and Amy Jacobson. Mike Drilling gave a talk about Orchid culture that was well received.

Editor's Notes

I was happy to see one of those charming rupicolous laelias on our table last month. I'm very fond of these orchids, as well as the small Tolumnias that Eric Levenson sometimes brings in, and I wanted to know how he grows them in our area (and without a greenhouse). He was kind enough to pen the following for us:

Have you shared my orchid growing experience of successfully growing a particular species for 2 or 3 years only to find that you "did something wrong" and killed the plant despite faithful and consistent culture?

This has happened to me several times and I've become a true believer that for many species, when you repot and what media you use can be critical (just as wiser growers have reminded me). This has led me to favor genera and species that don't need to be repotted often due to deteriorating media. Especially favored by me are genera and species that grow in nothing but rocks. Two of such genera that I have grown successfully (so far) are some of the Rupicolous laelias, Hadrolaelias, and Tolumnias.

I'm not experienced enough to give firm advice on how to grow these plants, but I can tell you what has worked for me under the inflexible conditions I have in Los Altos.

First inflexibility, the microclimate ... in Los Altos, where I live, several years of tracking temperatures shows routine summer temps between 90-100F, and not infrequently over 100F; and winter lows often between 30-40F. Usually temperatures are idyllic in Los Altos, but not always.

Second inflexibility, I have no greenhouse so all my plants rotate between in-doors under lights in winter, and outside in a shade house in the summer. So it is a great relief to find beautiful orchids that are happy growing in rocks, rarely requiring repotting, and can stay outside most of the year tolerating these temperature extremes. Tolumnias and Rupicolous laelias, including L. briegei, L. milleri and L. forneri that I grow, seem to be happy growing this way in Los Altos. Some of the Hadrolaelias I grow also seem happy including Laelia sincorana and L. jongheana.

My Tolumnias, Rupicolous laelias and the Hadrolaelias mentioned above grow in 100% lava stones about ¼" in size over 1 or 2 styrofoam peanuts in clay pots. In summer I water these plants every 2-3 days with rain water and occasional weak fertilizer ... more often if temps soar. And I don't hesitate to mist them. I continue that treatment until temps drop below the low 40's when I bring them inside under lights and reduce water to about every 5-6 days until temps once again rise over about 40F.

If this seems interesting to you there is an excellent article on Rupicolous laelias in the American Orchid Society. "Orchids", April 2001 which you can find at: http://sonomaorchids.com/?page_id=2535.

In Memory

Judy Evans

Our good friend, Judy Evans, passed away in her home on June 7th, after a long illness.

She was a member of the Board of Directors of the Peninsula Orchid Society for many years, in the position of Corresponding Secretary. She was a terrific and beautiful lady; volunteering her help for many of the POS activities. We especially loved her for taking on Chez POS duties at our annual show (planning, buying, and especially cooking) to feed all the volunteers and vendors. This picture was taken in the kitchen while she was working at our 2016 show, and if you didn't know her, you can easily see why she will be so missed. A twinkle in her eye, always a smile; she just made everything seem easy.

Our sympathies go out, especially, to her loving husband, Clint, who has been a long-time member, friend, and volunteer for POS.
